Chief,

I was hoping that, by this time, I would have had the opportunity to apologize to you for putting you through this mess. I understand that it is necessary for you to distance yourself from me until this is over. That's the most difficult part of the whole thing. I want you to know that I made a complete and unabridged disclosure to Internal Affairs. I know that what I did was wrong. I was motivated by nothing more than a sincere desire to help the kid succeed. We were losing so many of them back then, I thought that trying to save one was worth while. Still, it was wrong, no matter what my motivation was. I also understand that some punishment may be in order. I am more than willing to accept any reasonable punishment. toward that end, I can craft a waiver that will get us around all of that Bill of Rights hearing junk. I would like an opportunity to explain exactly what happened to you. We have accomplished a great deal together in the months since I came to work for you. I wouldn't want anything to cloud those accomplishments over. ...Doc.
